A Deliberately Planned Suicide by Well Known Citizen of Helena at an Early Hour Yesterday Morning.

J. E. Hart committed suicide at No. 421 Broadway yesterday morning shortly before 8 o'clock, the neighbors being first ap prised of the occurrence by a woman's heart piercing shricks. Going into the house they found Mrs. Hart sitting on the bed holding her husband's hand and appealing to him to speak to her. The husband lay upon his back in the bed, his head resting in a pool of blood, which oozed from his mouth, presenting a horrible sight. Mrs. Hart was in a pitiable state, and refused to leave the body of her husband, agonizingly asserting that he was not dead, and that he would be brought back to life. Not until Dr. Steele had arrived, made an examination and pro-nounced the man dead, would the frenzied wife consent to leave the room. Then she grew hysterical and had a severe nervous

Coroner Musser soon arrived, and after having viewed the body set the hour for holding the inquest at 9:30 o'clock and emhaving viewed the body set the hour for holding the inquest at $230 o'clock and empaneied a jury. At the inquest Mrs. Hart had so far recovered as to be able to give an account of the piteous affair. She said her hisband arose about 6:30 o'clock and built a fire. He then went back to bed and asked her if it was not time to get up and get breakfast. She arose and dressed herself and went into the kitchen, where she found the fire was not burning brightly, and went to the woodshed for some kindling. She was out but a few moments, and when she returned noticed the bed-room door was shut. This appeared singular to her, as Mr. Hart was not in the habit of closing it. She opened it a little ways and asked him if he were not going to get up. He replied that he would in a few minutes. She left the door open and went back to the kitchen. A premonition that something was not exactly right led her to the bed room where she again found the door closed. Opening the door a strong scent of powder smoke came pouring out, and a listed wher hash dished of lightly and a lightly was not a decided that did. closed. Opening the door a strong scent of powder smoke came pouring out, and a pistol in her husbai d's clinched hand told too plainly what had occurred. She took the pistol out of his hand, placed it on a dressing case and gave the alarm. There was no one in the house with her except her cousin, Miss Powell, on a visit from Ulipois, who was in an adjoining room. Illinois, who was in an adjoining room making her toilet. She did not hear any re-

Miss Powell said she had no intimation Miss Powell said she had no intimation of the tragedy until she heard her cousin's cries. She heard no report, although in an adjoining room. From an examination of the surroundings in the room in which Mr. Hart took his life, and from the evidence the theory is that Mr. Hart evidently had the intention of committing suicide when he returned to the bedroom where he secured the revolver—a 38-calibre, buil dog pattern, and had it in his hand when his wife first opened the door. Getting her to return to her work with an excuse, he reclosed the door, placed the pistol between his teeth, wrapped the bedclothes around his head and sent his soul into eternity. Mrs. Hart could not describe the exact appearance of the bedclothes when she found her husband, but if the pistol was exposed it is probable that in his death struggle he threw out his hand. w out his hand. The jury having gleaned all the informa-tion possible, retired to the court house and returned the following verdict:

"Territory of Montana, County of Lewis and Clarke.—ss An inquisition holden at Heiena, Lewis and Clarke county, Mon-Helena, Lewis and Ciarke county, Montana, on this 7th day of January, A. After the inquest the body was prepared by an undertaker for interment. A telegram was sent to the father of the deceased at Florence, Missouri, conveying the sad intelligence of his son's death. The re-mains will probably be taken to Bozeman for burial, as it is learned such is the desire of Mrs. Hart.

The decessed came to Montana about The deceased came to Montana about twelve years ago and took up his residence at Bozeman, where he lived for several years, where he held the position of book-keeper for several firms and was at one time agent for H. back east at school.

When Mr. Hart left Bozeman about four years ago he came to Helena and entered the employ of Charles Jefferis in his grocery store and afterwards became general manager for John T. Murphy and held that position at the time of his death. He was a remarkably handsome man, full flowing black beard and bright black eyes, a well known figure on our streets, probably as well known as any man in the city. He had many friends who were attracted to him by his pleasing ways and sunny manner. Upright and honorable, he always held positions of trust and never betrayed any of them. During the last campaign he was treasurer of the democratic county committee and took an active part in political affairs. Mr. Hart had been in bad health for some months, suffering from asthma, and was under the care of a physician. Descendency is attributed by his an. Mrs. Margaret Johnson, a woman of portly form, a vinegary cast of features, a metalic laugh and a bitter tongue, was tried yesterday before Justice Fleischer on a charge of assault upon Eugene Baumgartner, found guilty, and fined $15 and sent to jail in default of payment. Attorney Balliet prosecuted and Attorney Voss defended. The courtroom was filled with curious spectators, for whom the proceedings afforded much merriment. As the witnesses for the prosecution are Germans, the services of an interpreter were required, and as Attorney Voss and Justice Fleischer are Germans there were numer-

Fleischer are Germans there were numerous tilts as to whether certain answers were rightly interpreted, the shades of meaning of different words being insisted upon by Mr. Voss.

The reasons for Mrs. Johnson's arrest are numerous, but only one reason was brought to light during the trial and that was the assault. It appeared that the defendant was in the employ of Frank kenck as a housekeeper at his place of business near the Montana Central. Baumgartner is also in Kenck's employ, and while he attends to the saloon attachment, Mrs. Johnson took care of the sleeping rooms. Baumgartner reported Mrs. Johnson to Kenck for keeping money she received from lodgers, and she was notified that such a report had been made. This aroused her ire, and rushing out of the kitchen to where Baumgartner was eneaged in loading a wagon with beer, she caged in loading a wagon with beer, she caught him by the shoulder, gave him a good shaking, used dire threats and nugood shaking, used dire threats and nu-merous nasty expletives, then she seized a half of a stick of cordwood and brandished it in a-threatening manner, but the driver of the beer wagon interfered and took the murderous weapon away from her and testified accordingly. Another assistant of Mr. Kenck's saw the affair and corro-borates the testimony given.

of Mr. Kenck's saw the affair and corro-borated the testimony given.

Mrs. Johnson, when placed upon the stand, denied the assault in very vigorous language, and laughed and cried by turns, just when she thought the proceedings pleasant or disagreeable. When cross-questioned by Mr. Balliet she grew very questioned by Mr. Bainet she grew very irascible and pugnacious, and it was fortu-nate that the new prosecuting attorney wasn't in the room alone with the angry woman, who finally refused to answer questions because, as she said, she allowed no man to insult her. This was brought about by the following question:

Terms of the Agreement Between the Engineer and the "Q"R oad.

graph yesterday, as you requested, be cause it seemed important, under the cir-cumstances, and since we have been asked by the engineers to say what our-position is, it should be done with the authority of the whole executive committee. The com-pany will not follow up the black list or in who were concerned in the strike, but on the contrary will cheerfully give to all who have not been guilty of violence or other improper conduct, letters of introduction showing their record in our service, and will in all proper ways assist them in finding employment. The first duty of the management is to those who are in the company's employ, and we must remember and protect their interests by promotions and by every other means in our power. Beyond this, should it become necessary that we look outside of the service for men in any capacity, it is our intention to select the beat men available, and in making selections not to exclude those who were en-

Chairman of the Committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Dear Sir;—
The above is a copy of a telegram I received yesterday from Mr. Perkins, our president, and which, in accordance with his instructions, I have submitted to you, and which has been fully discussed with your committee. Yours truly,

HENRY B. STONE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—Mr. Henry B. Stone,
Second Vice President, Dear Sir;—We understand the committee in behalf of our respective organizations, the Brotherhood of spective organizations, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brother
